By popular vote of the student body, Bernie Stoeser and Rae Eldridge reigned as Governor and First Lady at the annual Governor's Day Festivities held Friday evening, February 25, at the city auditorium. Rae was unable to attend because of illness.

Junior high elected Harlan Pigsley and Patricia Fluharty as Lieutenant-Governor and Secretary of State respectively.

A short program was held before the traditional game between the Winner Warroirs and the Pierre Governors.

The program opened with a short pep meeting led by the senior high cheerleaders.

The state officials were ushered to their seats and were then in-troduced to the audience by Master of cere-Monies. Don George T. by Governor George T. Mickelson, Belva and Mickelson, Beverly Fenley presented Mrs. Mickelson, Miss Annamae Riff and the girls elected by the student body with flowers. The boys were given scrolls in recog-nition of their high honor.

During the half of the game, the twirlers entertained the crowd with a military routine. The Pierre Governors won the annual Governor's Day game by handing Max Becker's Winner Warriors a 55 to 24 defeat to keep possession of the "Little Brown Jug".

Winner gave the Governors a tough battle in the early part of the game but could not connect on their sl to stay in the contest. The Pierre defense held the Warriors to three field goals. The boys .from Winner connected on 18 of 24 free throws.

The lead changed hands on every basket in the first quarter before Pierre went ahead 9 to 7 at the end. The Governors then built up a 21 to 9 advantage at halftime.

The Governors held a 28-16 advantage at the end of the third period. (con't. page 2, col.4)

SPRING! AH

It's that time again. Nice weather (nice and slushy), little kids skipping rope and big kids wanting to just skip. But wait there's good news for the poor students of PHS. Only 55½ days left of school. Take off a little time for 552 assemblies, spring vacation, and tournaments and things don't look so bad after all:

Speaking of tournaments, that brings us to the Regional to be held at Mitchell this weekend. The more the merrier, so get your lungs in shape, find a ride and we'll see you at the tourney.

What has become of "Sloppy Jo?" No longer is her presence to be seen in the hallow halls of old Fierre Hi-(classrooms old Fierre Hi-(classrooms too). Has she the mumps? No, no, that couldn't be because she disappeared long before mumps began making a lot of legal absences.

We will have to face it. "Sloppy Jo" has in-explixably disappeared and taken with her the shapeless sweater, dirty jeans, and stringy hair. (This doesn't include the morning after slumber. parties). In fact there is little evidence of her having ever existed in Pierre Hi, except aroung the lockers, but that is beside the point, because there isn't such a thing as a messy locker, is there?

A new character has arrived on the scene to take her place, "Sophistacated Sal." Her good in fluence is seen in the long skirts, neatly combed short hair, polished shoes (sometimes) and short sleeved sweaters.

"Sophistacated Sal" has poise that never belonged to "Sloppy Jo". She is pleasant, behaves in an adult manner and saves gymnastics for gy class only. She does everything within her ability to get on the honor roll.

Though her influence is just getting a good start among the students of PHS, it is rapidly spreading, which is as it should be.

Everyone could help Mr. Moline and Mrs. Notmeyer a whole lot if they would quit throwing waste paper and everything else behind the radiators.

On the night of January 29 I attended the Pierre-Miller championship game in the disguise of a oand uniform. Between games, I minded my own business by playing my clarinet.

During the games, I was busily trying to get rictures. It was my first attempt at taking pictures at a game but hanging over the edge of the stage, I snapped a few.

Then I found a good view at last without anyone or anything in the way. I clicked the shutter and "Bang!" My eyes popped out and I looked around to see what happened.

Everyone seemed to be giving me unkind looks. I glanced down at my camera and discovered the flash bulb had broken. By the look I got from a man sitting near me, you'd think I had shot off a firecracker.
